Illinois Ag Mag - Reading Passage

L is for Lincoln

By Kathy-Jo Wargin

Chicago is the largest city in Illinois, and the third largest city in the United States. It is home to the tallest building in North America, the Sears Tower, which was built in 1973 and is 1,450 feet tall. It is also home to the largest building in America (excluding the Pentagon), which is called The Merchandise Mart. Chicago is also home to the Chicago River, which is the only river in the entire world that flows backward. The river was reversed in 1900 for sanitation purposes.

The very first Ferris wheel ever seen was at the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago, also known as the Chicago World's Fair of 1893. Built by George W. Ferris, this special attraction was built with 36 cars that could each hold up to 60 people, making it possible to take more than 2,000 people for a spin at one time. It was 250 feet in diameter, 825 feet in circumference, and weighed more than 4,000 tons. This Ferris wheel was gigantic compared to the amusement park versions we know today.

The Harold Washington Library Center, located in Chicago, is the world's largest public library, with more than two million books on its shelves. It is named in honor of Harold Washington, Chicago's first African-American Mayor, elected to office in 1983. Mayor Harold Washington died in 1987, and is fondly remembered for his love of reading and regard for education.
